

APPLICATION FOR COMMON-LAW PARTNERSHIP

Here is the procedure for making a statutory declaration of your common-law relationship. Please note that in order to be considered a "common-law partner" in Canada, you must provide proof that you have been living with your spouse in Canada for one year or more.

The declaration of common-law partnership form must be signed by you and your spouse after the enrolment ceremony.

You must have the following original documents on hand :

1. Birth certificate or certificate of Canadian citizenship for your spouse (if born outside Canada) and your dependents (children), if applicable.
2. Evidence that shows you have been living with your spouse for a year or more (documents showing the same address for both). The documents must contain the following: date (day/month/year), your first and last names, home address.

You must provide recent proof and old proof (one for you and one for your spouse):

Recent proof: the date must be as close as possible to your enlistment date (1 month maximum). For example: if your enrolment date is December 12, 2019, the date on the proof document must be between November 12 and December 12, 2019.

Old proof: referring to the date that is written on the recent proof you are going to provide, the old date must be more than a year old. For example: if the date on your recent proof is November 12, 2019, the date on the old proof must be before November 12, 2018.

N.B. 1: You do not have to provide old evidence if you and your spouse are parents of a child.

Examples of documents that are accepted:

1. Utility accounts (e.g., electricity, gas, telephone, internet), joint credit card accounts, or joint bank accounts;
2. copies of government documents; pay stubs, tax forms, bank or credit card statements, insurance policies

N.B. 2: If your spouse cannot be present on the day of enrolment, please contact us to make an appointment at the recruiting centre at a later date. If you are unable to attend with your spouse or provide the required documents, you will be enrolled as single. However, your marital status may be changed when you are able to take the required steps.
